SOFT HUES AND ORGANIC MATERIALS PAIR SEAMLESSLY WITH ROUNDED LINES IN THIS ZEN PARENTS' RETREAT

Words RACHEL WHITE Styling GEORGIE SHEPHERD Photography CHRISTOPHER MORRISON

Amid the wide, leafy streets of Adelaide, between the bustling CBD and picturesque Adelaide Hills, a 1920s bungalow gets a modern makeover. With the goal of bringing the family home in line with 21st century living, interior designer Georgie Shepherd created a contemporary extension complete with an ensuite, intended as a retreat for the owners, who are parents of three. The shower, decked out in matte white finger tiles from Cerbis Ceramics, is the star of the show. "An open, curved shower was an integral part of the layout as this helped to elongate the space," says Georgie. The owners couldn't be happier with their haven. "They love how calm and relaxing it is – it's a sanctuary for them."

Designer's tip

"The most important part of any bathroom is functional space planning," says Georgie. "Make sure you position the vanity, toilet and shower so you're greeted by the best view of the space." In this ensuite, joinery finished in Dulux Pipe Clay creates contrast against the textural 'Satinato' ripple wall tiles in Satin from Academy Tiles.

Crucial details

"Natural materials were used to give the space personality and depth," says Georgie. She chose Lorde White marble from CDK Stone for the vanity top, Fibonacci 'Flannel Flower' terrazzo flooring, and fittings from Astra Walker's 'Icon' range in Iron Bronze to complete the scheme. Two 'Anton' mini ceramic wall sconces from Volker Haug Studio add extra curves. >
